NEGRO EXTENSION NEWS

A pasture field meeting was held on the farm of Charlie Williams, of Red House community on July 29. In spite of the dry weather the Williams herd of beef cattle were fat and slick, having been fed no hay or grain to date. The condition of the cattle seemed to impress those in attendance more than any other feature. Mr. Williams told the history of the present success of his pasture program, that were formerly knolls of red galls and brome sage. The seedings are mainly ladino clover and orchard grass and are treated twice annually with applications of 500 pounds of complete fertilizer. His pastures are divided into five plots totaling 16 acres, which are rested and grazed alternately and have been clipped the first part of July. The group was deeply impressed and asked several pointed questions of the owner.

Following the inspection tour of the Williams farm the group journeyed to the Cole's Dairy, where they observed the irrigation system in action. They saw irrigated pasture, hay, corn and alfalfa. Mr. Cole related the cost offset and value received from installation of the water system fed by ponds. After the tour of the dairy farm, the group was treated to refreshments and reassembled from the dairy.

The consultants for the day were: Mr. M. C. Carters, agronomist from Va. State College; Mr. F. Dickerson, soils technician, and Mr. John T. Cole, dairyman.

Southern States Cooperative and Its Service Agencies

Have Drastically Reduced

FEED & SEED PRICES

Under Farmers' Self-Help Drought Emergency Program

In many sections of Southern States' operating territory a devasting drought has played havoc, adding to the problems of farmers already squeezed by lower farm prices and high production costs. In some areas the drought has struck for the third time in as many years, making the situation even more disastrous. The farmers who own and use Southern States Cooperative — 283,000 strong — are doing something about it under their own self-help program of working together.

DROUGHT EMERGENCY PASTURE

Prices on Balbo and Abruzzi rye and Domestic Rye Grass have been drastically and arbitrarily reduced — rye from 30 to 35 cents per bushel, and rye grass about $1.75 per 100 pounds. Yet Southern States' high quality standards have been maintained. These seeds may still be seeded with the coming of the rains for late fall, early winter and early spring pasture. Pasture is by far the cheapest and one of the very best feeds. Its use can greatly reduce the amount of hay and grain which otherwise would have to be purchased, and thus substantially reduce feeding costs. To help you lower your production costs, Southern States is pricing these seeds below cost, and service agents are handling them at their approximate cost.

FEEDS SPECIALLY PRICED DURING EMERGENCY

The price of Southern States 16% Pasture Dairy feed has been lowered as much as $6.00 a ton (30c bag). This top quality feed contains over 1,000 pounds TDN per ton. It is an excellent dairy feed for cows on pasture regardless of weather, but is especially suited for dairymen hard hit by drought. It will keep your milk production high, your expenses low, and you will have a better cow left.

The price of Southern States Egg-Maker has been lowered as much as $4.00 per ton (20c bag). This top quality laying mash for birds on range contains 20% protein with an abundance of vitamins, minerals and all other nutrients needed by birds on good pasture. Egg-Maker will keep your egg production high, expenses low, and you will have a better hen left.

Both 16% Pasture Dairy and Egg-Maker are regular Southern States Open Formula feeds. Their high quality remains unchanged although prices have been substantially reduced as an emergency aid to you farmers who own and use this cooperative. In fact, Southern States is pricing both feeds below cost, and service agencies at the approximate cost.

DROUGHT HAY PROGRAM

Hay will be purchased and supplied patrons at money-saving prices this year, as was done last year. Both Southern States and agencies will render the service at greatly reduced margins.

SELF-HELP AT WORK

By Supporting this cooperative effort, you help make prices of supplies more reasonable and save real money by using quality feeds and seeds cooperatively manufactured and processed by farmers in their own plants and mills.

S. P. SMITH TERMITE CONTROL Farmville

See S. P. Smith Termite Control, located on Route 1, Farmville, Va., for The Best in Pest Control."

In the rush and hurry of daily life we are prone to overlook some of the important forces at work determining our home and institutions, probably the most destructive being the Termite, a tiny insect, but highly destructive in fact which causes 90 per cent of the damage to our buildings.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to this modern concern who devote their time and energy to the insulation of the Termite. Their method of treatment being through impregnation of wood, soil, concrete, or other foundation members with Termite Chemical under hydrostatic pressure, which penetrates the wood and permanently crystalizes.

All work is inspected at frequent intervals by a Field representative from the Home office, to make sure that all contracts are properly treated and cared for. All work is done by thoroughly competent, factory-trained men.

Painting and other similar treatments are a waste of time and money, being very temporary. The only sure method of ridding the premises of termites is a thorough insulation under pressure, of all supporting members, sills, joists, plates, etc., shutting off the termites permanently from the building.

The management is to be complimented on the valuable service they are rendering the people of this community, and we trust our readers will avail themselves of the free inspection offered by this reliable company since a request will be met by prompt and courteous attention.

PRINCE EDWARD MILLS Farmville

Prince Edward Mills is located at 209 Mill in Farmville, Va.

When the greatest scientists began experimenting in the East and North to find a way to raise better strains they opened up a field of vast possibilities. It was found that even the common breeds of fowls and animals could be greatly improved and economy effected by certain foods that varied with seasons, climate and purposes for which the stock was raised. Laying chickens require certain food elements for market eggs, or perhaps another for hatching.

Young chicks need some other stimulus that will tide them over the dangerous time they must all go through.

Dairy herds should be given the proper feed to produce the greatest amount of butter fat if the herd is to show a profit, just as horses and mules need a balanced diet to render the maximum service without injury to their constitution.

To meet the requirements of the changing times great mills have sprung up over the country.

As a home institution we should be proud of their achievement. Their success depends on their putting out the most dependable products, and in doing this they are adding immeasurably to the value of the farms of our great state. It is our duty to aid in every possible way all institutions that have to do with the improvement of our farm output.
